With uncertainty in global economies and growth expected to reduce in 2023, businesses face the herculean task of navigating an uncertain economic landscape in lieu of multiple crises left in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Ukrainian war, surging inflation and increased debt tightening. To further add fuel to the fire, the American and European central banks have introduced base interest rate hikes at the fastest pace in recent history and, with the numerous banking collapses coupled with bearish movement of bank shares, the threat of a looming financial crisis is ever present.

Notwithstanding, in the middle of difficulty lies opportunity. In the second half of 2022, we witnessed a 33 per cent downturn in global M&A deal values compared to the first half. This trend was also reflected in the APAC region albeit a less severe decline was recorded, signifying the resilience of the region. Presently, the hovering question that remains is whether the same was a temporary setback in the region's M&A activity, and if the market should ready itself for a bull run in the second half of year 2023.

Amidst the current paradigm shift, we seek to uncover and discuss its implication on the Malaysian economy and opportunities arising therefrom in the upcoming 2023 Malaysia Insolvency Conference.

The annual insolvency conference returns in 2023 following a three-year hiatus due to the global pandemic, and aims to bring together insolvency practitioners, lawyers, accountants and other professionals to share their views on how the business landscape has evolved within Malaysia and the APAC region since then. Topics revolving around the economy, strategies for maximising value of companies in distress, litigation funding and recent insolvency and restructuring developments in Malaysia and abroad will be discussed via live panels, making it a quintessential event for finance and legal professionals alike.
